VW campervans heading for North Yorkshire

MMM editorial

Posted on 06 Aug 2015

If you're a VW camper fan then head for the Yorkshire Dales and the Dubs In't Dales VW Festival, taking place at Camp Katur for a third year, 26-28 September.

This year's VW-fest at Camp Katur Glamping Village in Bedale, North Yorkshire will welcome all VWs from campervans, Beetles to classic VW cars. New elements including a family-friendly dedicated campsite and an all-weather barn.

The three-day end of summer camp out and celebration of the much loved brand of classic vehicle will also include a pamper parlour nail beautician and holistic therapies alongside a sauna cabin, hot tubs and a hay bale plunge pool with pre-booked sessions available throughout the weekend.

The ever-popular Show 'n Shine competition, where owners can display their pride and joy, rounds off the weekend.

Owner of Camp Katur, Kerry Roy said, "Every year the Dubs In't Dales festival attracts more VW fans and this year with our added attractions and new facilities, we are really setting the bar high and will ensure that the 2015 Dubs In't Dales festival is one to remember!"

The weekend will be jam-packed with family friendly activities including access to the adventure playground, segway tours, the adrenaline filled Aerial Extreme high ropes course and taster activity sessions including archery, bush craft and dance workshops,

Glampers can also enjoy the full camp out experience, including local trade stalls, plus in the Barn there will be live music from local bands and a carvery on Sunday from 12pm - 3pm.

Dubs In't Dales is organised by Dubtricks and Classic Volks with a percentage of this year's proceeds going to Macmillan and the Yorkshire Air Ambulance.

Prices start from £15 per person and guests can choose to pitch their own tent or stay in their camper van, with full or part weekend camping options available.
